The loss of hire cover responds to a shipowner's loss of income following physical damage to a vessel. It includes protection against stranding, physical obstruction of the vessel and the removal of damaged cargo, offering comprehensive support for shipowners.

Further information can be found on our webpage (www.gard.no) under "Covering risks", or from your usual contact.

CASE STUDIES

Loss of income due to

Loss of income due to damage to hull

As a chartered dry bulk carrier approached its discharging port in South America, it ran aground and the hull was damaged. A few days later, the vessel was released with the assistance of a tug, but the damage was too severe to continue the voyage. As the vessel was unable to operate, the charterer put it off-hire. The vessel was later towed to a yard where it spent 12 days undergoing repairs. It was off-hire for a total of 30 days, including time lost obtaining tenders for repair, conducting surveys and resuming the voyage.

The Gard solution

The provisions of the charterparty in force at the time the vessel was unable to operate determines whether or not the Charterer may place the vessel off hire. A vessel put off hire by charterers on account of a damage is generally regarded as 'deprived of income' as a result of that damage, which is the trigger of compensation under a Loss of Hire policy.

In this case, the vessel was off-hire for 30 days and with a standard deductible of 14 days, the insured was entitled to compensation for 16 days, based on the agreed daily earnings as per the Loss of Hire policy.

Hire of portable equipment

A fire in the compressor room of a cement carrier severely damaged cargo compressors and electrical equipment. The compressors were taken to a workshop and due to a long wait for spare parts, repairs were estimated to take two to three months. The owners decided to hire portable compressors to continue trading and forwarded loss of hire underwriters a claim for expenses related to their hire and installation.

The Gard solution

This claim resulted in a minor allowance for the cost of repairs. The loss of hire insurer additionally covered a proportion of the hire expenses, but was not liable for more money than was saved by the decision to hire portable equipment rather placing the vessel off-hire.

Delay due to damaged cargo equipment

A bulk carrier was chartered on a time charterparty with a daily hire of USD 30,000. The shipowner took out loss of hire insurance for the corresponding amount. While loading at a port in Denmark, the electro-hydraulic motor grabs on one of the onboard cranes broke down. Subsequently, the loading and discharging capacity of the vessel was reduced, impacting daily hire.

The Gard solution

Delay due to damaged cargo equipment is not uncommon. Any breakdown of cranes, cargo pumps or similar equipment prevents the vessel from keeping to its schedule and may result in a reduction in charter hire. As per the Nordic Marine Insurance Plan, any period the vessel is trading with reduced hire as a consequence of such damage shall be converted into a corresponding period of total loss of income. E.g., if a vessel traded with 50% reduction of hire for a period of 50 days due to a damaged crane, this will be converted to a period of 25 days full off hire. With a standard deductible of 14 days, the insured would be entitled to compensation for 9 days, based on the agreed daily earnings as per the Loss of Hire policy.
